Miles Hunt, 7th October

Lanterns on the Lake

Thursday 16 November, 7pm

The nine songs featured on new album Versions of Us are existential meditations examining life's possibilities, facing the hand we've been dealt and the question of whether we can change our individual and collective destinies.

Singer and songwriter Hazel Wilde has no doubt that motherhood fundamentally shifted her perspective. "Motherhood made me aware at having a different stake in the world. I've got to believe that there's a better way and an alternative future to the one we've been hurtling towards. I've also got to believe that I could be better as a person, too."

Mixed by the band's guitarist Paul Gregory, in the bedroom of his home in North Shields, there is a sense of time and place that runs deep throughout this record.
